

Abstract

Embodiments of the present invention relate to selectively re-executing instructions in a computer processor based on their association with a particular cache miss.